KID-FRIENDLY PODCASTS WE LOVE

Kid-friendly podcasts that are made for – and even by – kids are popping up everywhere! Our kids are totally willing to put down their screens on family trips to listen to these hilarious, engaging & educational podcasts. Plus, parents enjoy them too! Here are a few of our favorites:

STORY PIRATES

(Not actual pirates) Hilarious and empowering stories performed by actors and improvisers who act out original stories created by kids.

STORYNORY

This is for your imaginative little ones who might not have the longest attention spans. With short episodes, they won't get lost or bored of long plot lines, but will be exposed to wonderful tales of action and adventure.

ELEANOR AMPLIFIED

This NPR produced podcast is an exciting adventure targeted towards the imaginative ones who might be sick of science and learning podcasts by now. With Eleanor's strong moral code and excellent storytelling, there is always an important lesson hiding in the excitement.

WOW IN THE WORLD

This podcast by NPR is specifically designed to pique your entire family's interest. They combine "science and fun" to explore kid-approved topics such as outer space, dinosaurs, and roller coasters.

WHAT IF WORLD

Mr. Eric takes a "what if?" question from a kid and spins it into an incredible story! What if houses could fly? What if sharks had legs? What if a tiny dragon lived in your closet? Original stories using fun voices and lots of imagination!

BUT WHY

A Podcast for Curious Kids by Vermont Public Radio. Topics such as how bubbles are made, why dogs have whiskers, and how chocolate is made are explained in kid-friendly and funny terms. This may be for a slightly older audience with longer attention spans, but you can select episodes to please the younger ones as well.

DREAM BIG

7-year-old Eva Karpman & her mom chat up celebrities, award-winning experts, and trailblazers from all walks of life - hear about these thought leaders in a completely fresh light, and be inspired in the process!
